Cultural Diversity and the Future of Conservation

An overview and personal stories

Suzanne Trapp & Oscar Hernandez

will kick off our program outlining USFWS' Urban Refuge Program and the growing importance of bringing people of all backgrounds and cultures into the conservation community.

Raquel Garcia Alvarez & Glenda Gonzalez will share inspirational personal stories on becoming conservation leaders.

Suzanne Trapp has worked over 20 years in Visitor Services for the USFWS. Most of her career has been spent at Minnesota Valley building their environmental education program.

She currently serves as the Regional Representative for the Urban Wildlife Conservation Program as well as the Urban Programs Manager at Minnesota Valley National Wildlife Refuge.
